

FAMILY RESEARCH STUDY

We are researchers who are studying what happens when people with intellectual disabilities have major challenges or are in crisis. We are very interested in the perspectives of family members when someone in that family has a crisis. We would like your opinion about what the problem looked like, and what might have helped you before or after.

If you agree to be part of this project, research staff will contact you to ask you questions in an interview that will last about 20 minutes. We will use the information to help agencies support individuals with intellectual disabilities and their families when in crisis.

If you have any questions or are interested in participating in this project, please contact Jonathan at 416-535-8501 ext. 7815.
