

Primary Care Psychiatry Course: Key Practice Challenges

CME

Eight monthly evening sessions
 Starting on October 24th, 2007

The Primary Care Psychiatry Course: Key Practice Challenges is designed to help family physicians manage key challenges in treating mental disorders. Taught by a team of psychiatrists and family physicians, led by psychiatrist, Dr. Sagar Parikh and family physician, Dr. Patricia Rockman, Key Practice Challenges covers: assessment and case formulation, tips on record keeping, handling medico-legal issues, problems of seduction and aggression, advanced psychopharmacology, enhancing treatment adherence, and choosing the appropriate psychotherapy. Modeled on the international award-winning course, Primary Care Psychiatry Course: Mood and Anxiety Disorders, it features highly interactive lectures and case based discussions.

While this course may be taken alone, it is also part of 3-module certificate program in Primary Mental Health Care from the University of Toronto. For more information about the certificate, please contact Lathifa Sykes at Toronto Western Hospital: Tel: 416.603.5734
